

Last week the task was to import data from a variety of data sources into R.

This week the topic was exploring the data through summary statistics and different visualisations.

Putting these two together, the task for this week's lab is to have a go at summarising and visualising the datasets from last week.